Veolia to showcase new water treatment technologies at Kalgoorlie's GME

Veolia Water Solutions & Technologies will show three new technologies to combat problems with mine water on Stand 1062 during the Goldfields Mining Expo (GME) at the Kalgoorlie-Boulder Racing Club from October 28-30, 2008.

They are the:

- Actiflo[®] Turbo Clarification system which has a new Turbomix and is designed to enhance flocculation efficiency by introducing a high level of homogenous mixing of coagulated water with microsand and polymer, resulting in reduced retention times and energy consumption
- Moving Bed Biofilm Reactor (MBBR), a plastic carrier for growing biofilm to clean water
- Hydrex[®] Specialty water treatment chemicals which are designed to reduce maintenance costs and the effects of fouling and scaling while improving legionella control and membrane cleaning.

With offices all over Australia, Veolia Water Solutions & Technologies (or just put VWS) is a world leader in the design and construction of water and waste water treatment plants with a focus on reuse and desalination.

It's various technologies also include:

- Actiflo[®] Clarification systems
- Hydrotech[®] discfilters
- reverse osmosis
- ultrafiltration
- multi-effect distillation and other thermal evaporation and condensation processes.

Veolia's GME stand would be worth visiting for many reasons, company representative Chris Madin said.

"We have had experience in the mining sector and know all about mining water issues such as contaminated water and we can find alternative solutions for your water needs, even in remote locations," Chris Madin said.

As well, VWS offered companies ways to reuse water and could provide remote monitoring that would help reduce maintenance and operational costs.
