Minegraveyard to show online advertising for surplus mining equipment at Kalgoorlie's GME

WWW.MINEGRAVEYARD.COM will showcase its online market for buying and selling mining equipment on Stand 4004 during the Goldfields Mining Expo (GME) at the Kalgoorlie-Boulder Racing Club from October 28-30, 2008.

The WA-based company describes its website as an advertising medium that connects buyers with mining companies and mining service providers who are selling equipment that they no longer require.

Any equipment can be advertised on the website as long as it has been used in the mining industry.

"Changes in the mining industry are ongoing which will always mean a varying resource pool of surplus and recycled equipment," Minegraveyard representative Gary Meek said.

"Companies can advertise equipment they no longer require and this can stay on the website for life or until sold.

"And when we put buyers into contact with vendors, they negotiate the price and sale."

The www.minegraveyard.com resource gave advertisers access to capital, freed up storage space, encouraged recycling, good waste management practices and acts as a conduit between mine sites throughout Australia, Gary Meek said.

It also gave buyers access to a large range of equipment at competitive prices.

"So the whole mining industry benefits."

Minegraveyard personnel can also visit sites to list and catalogue items to be sold.
